On behalf of the Editors and the entire team of New Astronomy at Elsevier, I would like to express our sincere appreciation for the refereeing you have done for the journal in 2012.

Without our referees it would be impossible to maintain a high scientific publishing standard. Your contribution to the quality of New Astronomy is therefore extremely valuable to us, and we would like to thank you for sharing in our efforts towards the advancement of science.

I sincerely hope we can rely on your continued support in 2013 and beyond.
