Announcements

Sultana Nahar was the Guest of Honor at the World Women's Day on March 18-19, 2006 in New York organized by the Progressive Forum, a non-profit and non-political organization, to discuss issues and problems faced by women scientists and how women can be inspired in science. She was also interviewed by a TV channel, and participated in an interview session with several newspapers. The meeting was attended by women teachers, poets, media personalities, state officials and other professionals, as well as young students. In her address Nahar presented a description of her work in astrophysics, as well as the scientist's perspective on education, family, and religion.

Special Events
